Executive Summary

Following SPA approval, Police Scotland announced on Thursday 14 December 2023 proposals to close a number of police buildings across the country and invite members of the public, stakeholders and staff to give their views.

Our objective is to listen to communities, colleagues and stakeholders and respond to their needs through an open and inclusive consultation on the proposed Police Scotland estates transformation. Strategic outcome three within our Joint Strategy for Policing \(2023\) sets out our commitment to keep public, communities and partners engaged and involved so they have confidence and trust in policing.

Maintaining public confidence and trust involves keeping communities involved and engaged in what and how we do things, ensuring our policing model is effective that we can adapt how we connect with communities to enhance safety and protection.

Consultation and engagement approach

Launch of a national conversation

The national conversation aimed to support an open continuous conversation at a national level on our strategic approach to transforming our estate, hosted on our Engagement Hub.

Opportunity for local engagement

At a local level, each site for consultation had its own dedicated area on our engagement hub with information about the site and proposed changes. Co-designed with colleagues, the level and scope of engagement is determined by the potential impact of proposed changes to local communities and stakeholders. This assessment takes into consideration the drivers of public confidence, user experience and accessibility of local policing.

Risk-based assessment

The level and scope of engagement was based on the impact of estate closures on communities and stakeholders and within the drivers of public confidence (i.e., visible, engaging and proactive local policing teams) – as summarised in appendix 1.

Engagement themes

The consultation includes qualitative and quantitative questions to capture agreement with the proposals and people's understanding, perceptions, and use of their local police buildings. The information was used to inform local communications and engagement, address areas of concern and impacts for informing decision-making and local scrutiny.

Communications

A co-ordinated, consistent, approach in efforts to raise awareness with at national and local level, public and stakeholders was designed by colleagues in communications. A toolkit was designed for use by divisional colleagues to support the national conversation on estates and the local engagement at divisional level of individual building closure proposals. Assets included a video of ACC Steve Johnson outlining the changes proposed, a BSL version of this video for national and local dissemination, and social media materials promoting the consultation.

Response

In total, 12 consultation responses were received from 12 individuals. (No one completed the consultation in the capacity of a Police Scotland employee or official local authority/ local community group, community council or residents' association capacity.)

Key findings

Overall, the findings show the importance of maintaining visible, accessible and proactive policing in local areas and keeping communities engaged and informed on next steps.

Agreement with proposals

Most respondents reflected the Aboyne station was outdated and would require investment to bring it up to standards for modern policing. Most respondents reflected on the longstanding lack of access to the station, highlighting the perceived minimal use of the site by police officers, police staff, and the public.

Factors influencing agreement with proposals

Views in favour of disposal were largely driven by perceptions that Aboyne Police Station has limited accessibility and operational utility. While the station is not an operational base and not open to the public, a number of respondents associated the site with community engagement, linked to the use of the station's garden as publicly accessible allotments, which were viewed positively, garnering interest as a community asset. A small number of respondents expressed reservations, reflecting on the station's historical role; with the site itself viewed by some respondents as a visible commitment to local policing. This visibility was considered important in demonstrating a policing presence and in supporting confidence that local issues are recognised and taken seriously.

1. Introduction

Police Scotland inherited a very large and ageing estate, much of which was not fit for purpose, with high maintenance costs, environmental inefficiencies, and in locations that no longer meet the requirements of local communities. Police Scotland currently owns over 320 buildings many of which are located less than 5 miles from the next nearest Police Scotland building.

Following SPA approval, Police Scotland announced on Thursday 14 December 2023 proposals to close a number of police buildings across the country and invite members of the public, stakeholders and staff to give their views.

The consultation included qualitative and quantitative questions to capture agreement with the proposals and people's understanding, perceptions, and use of their local police buildings.

A new dedicated space on our Engagement Hub was launched in December 2023 which allows our staff, stakeholders and the public to take part in a national conversation as well as local consultations that will help us shape our estate for the future.

1.1. The Community Empowerment (Scotland) Act 2015

The Community Empowerment (Scotland) Act 2015 asserts to empower community bodies through the ownership or control of land and buildings, and by strengthening their voices in decisions about public services. A significant part of this act refers to participation in public decision-making whereby Scottish public authorities must promote and facilitate the participation of members of the public in the decisions and activities of the authority, including in the allocation of its resources.

The level and scope of engagement should be based on the impact of estate closures on communities and stakeholders, with consideration of the drivers of public confidence (i.e., visible, engaging and proactive local policing teams). The relative risk necessitates a proportionate response, meaning if 'high risk high participation', all preceding methods will be used (see appendix 1).

For determining risk, we sought information to understand:

- How the buildings are being used by colleagues, communities and stakeholders and the alternative options for continuing to meet needs
- How is local policing maintaining and/or enhancing visible, engaging and accessible services as part of the future policing model
- Viability of the estate for community asset transfer.

The risk assessment will be undertaken with each affected local policing division which will determine the level of engagement. The approach and methods of engagement are based on Police Scotland's Public Engagement and Participation Framework.

The local consultation for Aboyne Police Station was launched 19 November 2025 and concluded 17 December 2025.

1.2. Analysis and reporting

This report presents a question-by-question analysis of the responses and comments made to the local consultation for Aboyne Police Station. All responses were gathered via our online Engagement Hub; no submissions were received via any other means.

The qualitative feedback is presented according to the balance and nuance of opinion relating to the impressions and perceptions of the site, in this instance of Aboyne Police Station.

Respondents to any public consultation or engagement are self-selecting, and the responses may not be representative of the population.

For each of the consultation questions the issues or common themes frequently raised by respondents are presented. Please also note that often respondents answer “None” or “No idea” or singular word responses without providing additional information to explain their response further.

The open questions did not have a fixed response, or a limit to the length of the response, allowing the respondents to answer in their own words and in as much or as little detail as they liked. Consequently, thematic analysis was used to analyse the open question survey responses. This meant that each response was read by a member of the research team and the codes (main points) were identified. The next step was then to read across the responses to systematically identify any common ideas or patterns of meaning. Themes were discussed across the research team to allow for comparisons and contrasts until consensus was reached among the team on the final structure.

Accordingly, the extent of the analysis is proportionate to the volume of feedback in terms of comments made. An example of the data analysis process leading to the ‘Impressions of Aboyne Police Station’ results is attached (see appendix 2). The quotes that are provided through the report are intended to illustrate some of the points in respondents’ own words and to capture some of the themes as they were written.

This analysis did not seek to provide a comparative or quantitative account of the issues that were raised but sought to summarise the range of topics and responses that were provided. However, descriptive terminology is used to add clarity on the views. For example, ‘some’ or ‘many’. It was not the intention to quantify the views, but it should be noted that in general, ‘many’ or ‘most’ refers to views that were shared across a large section of the responses. Use of the term ‘some’ is used to reflect an idea or viewpoint that came up less frequently than ‘many/most’.

Finally, the singular quantitative question on agreement relating to the proposed disposal of the site should not be taken independently from the qualitative context and narrative with which we thank respondents for providing.

1.3. Overview of respondent profile and responses

A total of 12 consultation responses were received from 12 individuals. (No one completed the consultation in the capacity of a Police Scotland employee or official local authority/ local community group, community council or residents' association capacity.)

Breakdown of respondents - total respondents (n = 12) received by classification

Answering as an individual

Listed below are the 4 most prevalent themes at a total sample level. This is to provide an understanding of the issues reported across the total sample. Themes are not presented in an order of magnitude.

- Symbolic value of the station as a commitment to the local area from Police Scotland.
- The value of the building is seen its garden, currently used as allotments for public use.
- There is a lack of public access to the station and no perception of the building being used as a safe space for the community.
- No current utilisation of the station to support policing.

Individuals

Individual members of the public represented 100% (12/12) of respondents, their views drive the prevalence of specific themes at a total sample level.

Local organisation representatives

There were no responses from local organisations/representatives in the sample.

2. Consultation Analysis

2.1. Impressions of Aboyne Police Station

Impressions of how Aboyne Police Station is currently being used by the public for engaging with the police.

There were 12 responses to this open-ended question. Please note that this question did not capture quantitative data and accordingly only substantive themes/points raised by respondents are presented. The most frequently made points were that:

- Respondents were unsure, or queried, the extent to which the station is open to the public, with several respondents believing the station is not used for this purpose.

Impressions of how Aboyne Police Station is currently being used by police officers and staff for operational policing.

There were 12 responses to this open-ended question. Please note that this question did not capture quantitative data and accordingly only substantive themes/points raised by respondents are presented. The most frequently made points were that:

- Members of the public responding do not see the building as used for operational purposes.
- Several responses cite seeing police vehicles parked outside the building, but this is the only form of activity they are aware of.

Impressions of how Aboyne Police Station is currently being used by members of the public as a safe space.

There were 12 responses to this open-ended question. Please note that this question did not capture quantitative data and accordingly only substantive themes/points raised by respondents are presented. The most frequently made points were that:

- There is no perception of the station being used as a safe space in practice. This is due to the station not being occupied or open to the public.

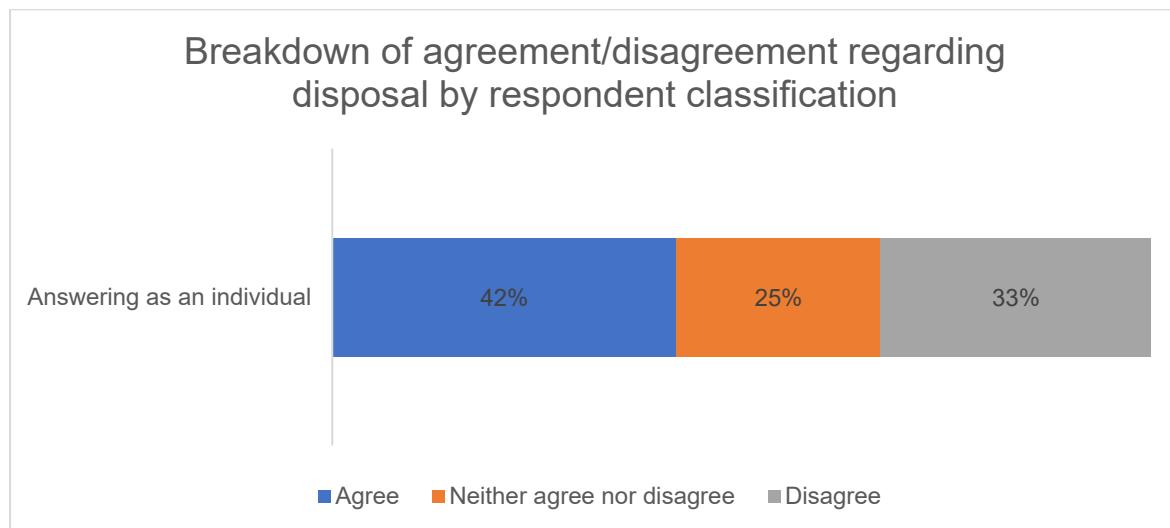

2.2. Perceptions of the proposal to dispose Aboyne Police Station

To what extent do you agree or disagree with the proposal to dispose of this building for the reasons stated at the start of this section?

| | Total N = | Agree* N= % | | Disagree* N= % | | Neither agree nor disagree N= % | |
|------------------------|--------------|----------------|------------|-------------------|------------|---------------------------------------|------------|
| All respondents | 12 | 5 | 42% | 4 | 33% | 3 | 25% |
| Individuals | 12 | 5 | 42% | 4 | 33% | 3 | 25% |

“Strongly agree” and “Agree” have been combined into “Agree” as well as “Strongly disagree” and “Disagree” being combined into “Disagree”. “Don’t know/No Opinion” and blank responses have been omitted.

3. Conclusions

The consultation for Aboyne Police Station provided the opportunity for the public, stakeholders, and colleagues to provide their feedback and perceptions of Aboyne Police Station in response to the proposed estate transformation programme.

Although this approach provided a way for people to submit their views, given the relatively small number of responses, it cannot offer a complete or representative view that reflects the concerns and insights of all individuals and organisations.

OFFICIAL

Findings indicate the long-standing lack of access to Aboyne Police Station is a driving influence on the impressions of its function in community policing in the local area.

Next steps

This report provides a summary of the consultation analysis in support of a consistent, co-ordinated, and open dialogue between Police Scotland and the public, stakeholders, and colleagues regarding the proposed estate transformation programme.

These results will be shared to the appropriate governance mechanisms within Police Scotland and will be shared with the public via the Engagement Hub in due course.

The next steps are summarised below as:

- A report will be prepared (which will include this consultation report) to Corporate Finance and Investment Board with evidence to inform decision-making.
- If approved to progress, a paper will be prepared for the Scottish Police Authority Resources Committee with a proposal.
- Police Scotland will progress the activities within the proposal to either dispose of a building (which may include selling), support a community asset transfer of a building, or invest in a building.
- Feedback to the public, communities and stakeholders will be shared and published in the form of 'you asked, you said, we listened' on our Engagement Hub where the consultation was hosted. Copies of the consultation findings will also be published.

Scottish Police Authority meetings are public and they can be viewed online via the SPA's website.
